PETERSBURG, VA., August 12, 1890. The following changes in the internal-venue office in this city are announced day by Collector James D. Brady: John C. Armistead, deputy, promoted to the position made vacant by the death of orge Schank; James P. Hobbs, deputy. oted vice Mr. Armistead; Major E. B. Branch appointed deputy collector temporarily to fill vacancy caused by the pro-motion of Mr. Hobbs.

Montrose Grange, No. 28, had a delightful watermelon feast and pic-nic at their hall, in Dinwiddie county, on Saturday last. The families of the Grangers were all present and the day was one of genuine anjoyment. Some especially fine melons were cut. This grange was organized in 1874, and there has never been any changes in the officers since the organization, a fact that can be stated about few other orders. Dr. E. C. Powell is the master and Mr. T. N. Rives the secretary. There are two granges in the county, both of them prosperous and working in harmony with the alliance. A MELON FEAST

Dr. E. C. Powell will represent the county alliance of Dinwiddie in the meeting of the State Alliance to be held this month in Lynchburg.

LANGSTON'S CAMPAIGN. The County Court of Lunenburg was held yesterday, but there were no cases of interest on the docket. The political ball was started in behalf of Langston for Congress, a colored man being the orator. He not only ursed Langston's claims but praised the force bill. The Langstonies are all heartily in favor of this iniquitous measure.

measure.

It is cheering to hear the glowing descriptions of the fine tobacco crop in this section. It is universally pronounced to be the best known in many years. The planters seem to be supremely happy over their properts.

It is understood that plans are being discussed for the proposed new hall for the Young Men's Christian Association in this city. The best site in town for the purpose has been secured by the association. pose has been secured by the association, and now remains the character and style of the building to be erected. It will doubtless comprise several handsome stores. In order to secure the best possible building it is thought that a premium will be offered for the most desirable plan.

Protracted meetings—both among the white and colored people—are in progress in many places in this section, and large numbers attend them, The results in many instances have been very gratifying.

NOTABLE PACT.

Though there are no elections for local officers in the counties until next spring the field is being canvassed in some of the adjacent counties thus far ahead of time. It is a noticeable fact though most of the counties in the Scuth Side are Republican the officers elected by the neople are Democratic. This is due to the fact that in their local affairs the people recognize merit, and they always find this virtue in the Democratic party. Democratic party.

The census enumerator of industrial statistics for Petersburg says that in his search for information he has found many more small manufacturing establishments than he had any idea of. His report, when made, will verify the statement some time ago made in this correspondence that the industrial statistics of Petersburg will be far in advance of the general estimate.

in fact, there is noble blood in his veins; he is an Irish count, and his name can be found in "Burke's Peerage," a copy of which can be found in the Congressional Library. This claim of the young man adds new interest to the affais.

The young lady's father, however, puts no credence in O'Brien's statement. He blames him in strong terms for stealing his daughter and practicing a deception on her. He said last night: "What if there is somebody of his name in Burke's Peerage? Aren't there hundreds of O'Briens? There is nothing to prevent his taking some one else's name. It is done every day. You frequently hear of persons representing themselves to be dead men's sons. There may have been an O'Brien who belonged to the Irish peerage, but that doesn't prove this man to be of noble blood.

"This young man came to me to learn to read and write. He couldn't do it, and gave it up and became a waiter. Poorly educated? Why, he isn't even that. He doesn't know anything."

Mr. Porter and his wife are much distressed at the state of affairs, and are considerably annoyed at the prominence which has been given the matter in the newspapers. They do not regard it as merely "a little romantic affair." but as a very said affair, and one which has caused them a great deal of sorrow. For their daughter they have only words of tove and tenderness, and any time she may return home, but they will not receive her husband, who they think has acted in a very underhand and unmanly fashion.

It will be particularly unfortunate for Mr. O'Brien should he chance to come across Mr. Porter. The latter is not in the best of temper when he speaks of O'Brien. His wife declares that she will never forgive him, and any weakly-backed claims of rechildren with the fam-shortly transmit to this city some sort of evidence that he comes from the noble house of the famous Shamus or equally-celebrated scion of the house of O'Brien.

Charlotte, N. C., August 12.—The north-bound Richmond and Danville train which left here yesterday afternoon was boarded at Lexington by two men who had the appearance of being desperate characters. When the train had gotten a little way from Lexington they signalled the engineer to stor the train. They were in the car next to the express-car. Their movements were observed by some of the passengers, who with the conductor moved in a body upon the men. They holted for the door and jumped from the train, though it was running at the rate of thirty miles per hour. The incident caused considerable excitement.
